SLIPCOVER CARE INSTRUCTIONS:

When washing your slipcover, please follow these instructions carefully:

CHECK FOR WASHABILITY:

When considering cleaning options, it is important to know if the fabric used for your slipcover can be washed or not. First, check to make sure that the fabric on your slipcover is called "Alero", "Ida", "Downsview" or "Cuddle". These are the only fabrics in the line that we recommend for home laundering because they are pre-washed and pre-shrunk. All other slipcover fabrics must be dry-cleaned or there is a risk of shrinkage. Even if you have a washable slipcover, you may want to have it professionally dry cleaned.

CONSIDER ARM PILLOWS AND CONTRASTING WELT:

- If you ordered contrasting arm pillows in a fabric other than the fabrics shown to the right, their covers are not washable. Please refer to the cleaning code assigned to that fabric.
- If you ordered your slipcover with a contrasting welt, it is not recommended for home washing, and should be dry-cleaned to prevent color bleed.
- If the arm pillows are in a different color than the body of the piece, wash them separately from the slipcover to prevent color bleed.

IMPORTANT NOTES ON FADING/COLOR BLEEDING:

We recommend that you wash your slipcover only periodically. Like with any fabric, repeated washing can cause fading and change the texture of the slipcover fabric. Please note, darker colors may bleed in the washing process and should not be washed with lighter colors.

WASHING INSTRUCTIONS:

We suggest that you run the washer through a wash cycle empty before washing your slipcover, just to be sure it is free of any detergent, bleach, or other impurities that might spot or stain the slipcover. We also suggest that you wash the entire slipcover, including cushion covers, back covers and arm pillows. Washing only select parts may result in color variations on the piece of furniture. You may also want to consider washing all the slipcovered pieces in your room at the same time. For example, wash the sofa, the chair and the ottoman covers at the same time. This is, again, to minimize color variations which may occur with washing. Don't overload your washer and do not mix with other laundry. Separate the slipcover into two loads, washing the body cover in the first load and the cushion and back covers in the second load. Zip the zippers (closed) on pillow and cushion covers to prevent damage when washing. Use the gentle cycle on your washing machine with cold water and a mild detergent (add detergent after the machine is filled with water, not poured directly onto the fabric). Do not use a detergent with bleach or a bleach additive. Remove the slipcover from the washer immediately at the end of the cycle.

DRYING INSTRUCTIONS:

Tumble dry each load on low heat for five minutes, then continue on air cycle for ten to fifteen minutes, until the slipcover is just slightly damp. Then put the slipcover back on the piece of furniture while still slightly damp - you may need to stretch it a little to get it back on. Putting the cover back on while it's still slightly damp ensures it will dry to fit. Covers for the seat and back cushions and pillows should be replaced slightly damp as well. Stand the cushions on end, rotating them every 20 to 30 minutes until dry. This will prevent any water that may drain to one side of the cushion from sitting in one place and possibly causing a water stain. Do not accelerate the drying process. Doing so can cause fabric to shrink. Do not line dry, as fabric may stretch.
